

The scene is set outside a girl's toilet. The shot slowly enters the toilet and then you can see a dripping tap, then it shows a lonely girl is about to start eating her lunch in the cubicle.

After one bite out of the sandwich she has a sudden flashback where she's sitting alone by a tree in a huge field. Then it goes back to her eating a sandwich and after her next bite another flashback occurs where she's standing outside the school and wondering if she should go in.

She makes a fist then goes back to eating a sandwich and then goes to another flashback of her getting bullied and punched then starts to blink.

The scene then carries on to her eating the rest of the sandwich, then another flashback occurs where she sees a childline poster and decides to write the number on her hand. Then it goes to her finishing the sandwich and putting her feet down and walking out to a mirror and looking at herself then leaves the toilets then it cuts to the credits and "IT'S UP TO YOU" text.